A long-exposure photograph of a city skyline at dusk. In the foreground, a multi-lane highway curves through the frame, with light trails from cars creating vibrant streaks of yellow, white, and red. The background features several illuminated skyscrapers against a gradient sky transitioning from orange near the horizon to a deep blue at the top. One prominent building on the right has the word 'FERRING' at its top. Other buildings have various lights and logos, including one with a globe icon and another with the word 'NEROPORT'.
